Ice thawing between province, teachers

Talks. High school teachers' upcoming vote on deal with province makes their elementary colleagues hopeful

Ottawa elementary school teachers said they are hopeful to sign off on a deal like one being brokered with high school teachers as the unions prepare to battle Ontario's Bill 115 legislation in court.

"The reduction of rhetoric has gone a long way to making things better," said Peter Giuliani, president of the Ottawa-Carleton Elementary Teachers' Federation, of discussions between the union and province since Kathleen Wynne became premier Feb. 11.

"Whether or not that repairs the relationship remains to be seen," he said. "We're in the middle of negotiations."

Giuliani's comments came a day after Ontario Minister of Education Liz Sandals indicated she would make concessions to high school teachers with respect to "sick leave, maternity leave, retirement gratuity, unpaid days, and local bargaining" to smooth rifts opened by a semester of teacher protests.

Protests throughout the fall and winter saw teachers jettison extracurricular activities, such as clubs and sports teams, in response to Bill 115. The controversial bill froze salaries, barred strikes and subverted traditional labour relations by imposing a new contract on teachers if a deal wasn't struck by 2013 in an attempt to grapple with Ontario's $11.9-billion deficit.

The talks led both high school and elementary teachers to bring back extracurricular in late February. "I tend to approach things from a positive perspective," Giuliani said. "But, to be honest, we'll have to wait and see the details of any deal."

New foreign entrepreneurs face backlog: Business owner

Startup Visa program.

Feds aim to lure 'the world's best and brightest,' but local entrepreneur from Pakistan warns getting permanent residency takes time

joe.lofaro@metronews.ca

A local entrepreneur from Pakistan who is in immigration limbo applauded the federal government's new Startup Visa program to lure foreign nationals, but is concerned applicants could face the same immigration backlog he is stuck in.

Announced Monday, the program will grant foreign entrepreneurs permanent residency if they get funding from a venture-capital firm or angel investor.

Minister of Citizenship and Immigration Jason Kenney said in January the program would help make Canada "the destination of choice for the world's best and brightest to launch their companies."

Abdul Haseeb Awan, founder of sunglasses manufacturer Efani, agrees but says it could take a while for applicants to get their permanent residences if his experience is any indication.

Awan has a work permit and says immigration officials told him he could get his permanent residency in 10 months. Almost a year and a half has gone by, he said.

The old program

- Launched in the 1970s, it became apparent in recent years that the Federal Entrepreneur Program no longer functioned effectively.
- On July 1, 2011, CIC implemented a temporary moratorium on new applications to the program to limit the growth of the backlog while it is under review. There are no plans to lift the moratorium.

Triathlete Sindy Hooper sets out for a 40 km bike ride as she prepares for this summer's Ironman Canada in Whistler, B.C., despite her battle with pancreatic cancer. GRAHAM LANKTREE/METRO

Triathlete races on after diagnosis

Iron-woman.

After learning she had pancreatic cancer, Sindy Hooper decided to keep training to raise money for research

graham.lanktree@metronews.ca

When Sindy Hooper quit her job to tackle an Ironman triathlon after learning a friend had cancer, there was no inkling that she would soon be in a race for her own life against the disease.

"It's just devastating. I went from being very healthy and thinking I would live to 85 to being faced with this disease," Hooper said of her pancreatic-cancer diagnosis, which came shortly after her 50th birthday on Dec. 9. "You look at the stats and it's a very fatal cancer. Ninety-four per cent of all people with pancreatic cancer die within (five) years. I have to stay hopeful."

Never one to back down from a challenge, Hooper continues to train 20 hours a week despite chemotherapy, a complex surgery to remove a tumour in January and an upcoming radiation treatment — and she still plans to race the all-day event in

Ironman results

During her first full Ironman triathlon at Mont-Tremblant in August 2012, Sindy Hooper racked up some impressive numbers and blew the cut-off time of 17 hours to finish the event out of the water. She placed sixth in her age group.

• Swimming: 3.86 km

Sindy's time: 1:10:04

• Cycling: 180 km

Sindy's time: 6:18:30

• Running: 42.2 km

Sindy's time: 3:50:58

• Total time: 11:38:17

Whistler this August.

"Getting back to those things makes me feel healthy and normal again," she said. "I'm training 50 per cent of what I did before at 60 per cent of the effort. This year is not about qualifying for the Ironman world championship in Hawaii but to raise money for pancreatic cancer."

Four years ago, Hooper

quit her job as a health-care administrator to pursue her goal of racing against the world's best triathletes at the annual Hawaii event after a good friend was diagnosed with ovarian cancer.

"It was a reminder for me that life can be short," she said. "This became such a big dream for me."

Hooper intends to cross the finish line with her husband Jon, a physician, wearing special racing gear decked out with a purple ribbon on the side and a pancreatic-cancer logo on the back to raise $5,000 for research.

"Pancreatic cancer doesn't get a lot of funding," she said. "People die so quickly there aren't enough people out there to be spokespersons."

So far, Hooper has raised $872 toward that goal. Leading up to the summer race, she will drum up more backing by tackling Ottawa Race Weekend May 25 with 50 friends and supporters, as well as a number of other races including an Ottawa-to-Kingston bike ride.

"I've been floored by the amount of support I've received throughout all of this," she said tearfully. "People tell me that it really inspires them. That's important for me."

Diagnosis

In her own words

On the pancreaticcancer-canada.ca website, Sindy Hooper writes about the risk factors for developing the disease and her reaction with her husband, Dr. Jon Hooper, upon hearing the news:

After an exceptionally long ultrasound, the radiologist told me I had a malignant tumour on my pancreas, a cancer. Shock, disbelief, my world felt shattered. How is this possible when I'm in the best shape of my life? When Jon and I were alone, I asked him, "Is this a good cancer or a bad cancer to have?" He replied "a bad one" and we both cried, hugging each other, not knowing what to say next.

I soon learned that the predisposing factors for pancreatic cancer are smoking, obesity, age over 55, African-American heritage, pancreatitis and diabetes. I had none of them. Pancreatic cancer is the fourth leading cause of cancer-related death in Canada and the lifetime probability of developing pancreatic cancer is approximately one in 79. It has the highest mortality rate of all the major cancers: 75 per cent die within the first year of their diagnosis (most within the first three to six months) and 94 per cent of patients die within five years. Surgery offers the best chance for long-term survival. However, only 15 per cent of patients are diagnosed early enough to be eligible for surgery.

Public-private-partnership policy pitched by city staff

Rules. 'Open, fair and transparent process' to be overseen by city's supply branch: Report

alex.boutilier@metronews.ca

Ottawa's finance and economic development committee will have a chance to weigh in on a proposed public-private-partnership (P3) policy on Tuesday.

The policy lays out a uniform set of rules for P3 agreements — agreements that see the private sector finance and provide services historically provided by the public sector. Recent examples of P3 deals include the redevelopment of Lansdowne Park and the development of the Shenkman Arts Centre and Orleans Town Centre.

A standard governance model and selection criteria

An artist's rendering of the new stadium to be part of the Lansdowne Park redevelopment. The Lansdowne Park development is an example of a P3 agreement, which see the private sector finance and provide services historically provided by the public sector. CONTRIBUTED for P3 projects was first requested by the city's auditor general, Alain Lalonde, who in 2006 identified a need for uniform criteria to judge the merits of a P3 project.

"The policy was developed to address the recommendations outlined in the 2006 audit and to meet key objectives of delivering city projects in innovative ways," the report reads.

"The policy establishes consistent practices that will require city departments to follow when evaluating and pursuing potential P3 options for the implementation of city projects."

The overriding goals are to find "innovative" ways of delivering services and addressing infrastructure priorities, engaging private-sector expertise and financing, and to share project risks related to money, capital and operations between the public and private sectors.

Searching. Ottawa seeks consultants for Queen Street revamp

Ottawa is looking for a consulting firm to undertake a massive study on how best to transform Queen Street into the downtown's showcase transit corridor.

The successful applicant will be given the unenviable job of bringing together a variety of interests, including community groups, businesses and city bureaucrats with an eye to a preferred plan for the central downtown street. And, according to a request for proposals posted Monday, the city wants it done within a year.

It will be the first step of Ottawa's Downtown Moves plan, a $575,000 framework intended to make the most of opportunities associated with the city's coming light-rail line.

"The essence of this 'move' is to transform Queen Street into downtown Ottawa's 'Transit Showcase Street,' and respond to the demands that will be placed on the street by the future OLRT station entrances located along it," the RFP reads.

Queen Street will comfortably support high pedestrian volumes destined to and from the OLRT stations within a vastly improved street environment with an emphasis on aesthetic quality and ease of movement of all pedestrians.

The detailed plan will have to balance the needs of pedestrians and transit users (both light rail and bus) while accommodate cyclists and providing on-street parking and loading space.

Beautifying the street, including providing benches and trees, will also be required, as will "incentivizing" commercial development along the strip bordered by Bronson Avenue and Elgin Street.

Councillor surprised by spike in requests for city information

2012 report. Steep increase may mean city is not releasing responses quickly enough, McRae says

joe.lofaro@metronews.ca

Requests sent to the city's Access to Information and Privacy Office have been on the rise since 2010, according to a report to the city's finance and economic development committee, and one of its members has no idea why.

The 2012 Year End Municipal Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy report says the city responded to 855 requests for general records in 2012. That's a 26 per cent jump from 2011 (680) and a 48 per cent increase from 2010 (576).

"I saw that number, and it surprised me," said River Ward Coun. Maria McRae, who sits on the committee that will receive the report Tuesday. The numbers could indicate that the city needs to release more information sooner, McRae said.

Citizens, special-interest groups and members of the media can request municipal government information through a formal process at a cost. The statutory time frame to respond to a request is 30 days, but the city only met that target with 660, or 77 per cent, of the 855 requests. The city was able to meet the deadline 84 per cent of the time in 2011.

McRae said she couldn't comment on whether or not the access-to-information office at city hall is understaffed.

She said the city clerk and

Boy Scouts. Application for troop sponsored by gay-rights group denied

The Boy Scouts of America has rejected an application for a scouting troop sponsored by a Utah gay-rights organization.

The Utah Pride Center asked permission to start a troop for 10 middle-school-aged children with straight troop leaders, said executive director Valerie Larabee. Many of the boys' parents had left Scouts or opted not to join because of their opposition to their long-standing policy excluding gay men and women.

After spending four months preparing a proposal to adhere to Scouts' standards, Utah Pride Center officials said their entire application was returned intact four days later — including the business cards they included.

They were told that the mission of their organization didn't properly align with the goals of Boy Scouts, said Utah Pride Center's director of community engagement.

Prosecutors want death penalty for Holmes

Colorado theatre shooting. The defence is expected to argue suspect is not guilty because he was legally insane at the time

Prosecutors on Monday said they will seek the death penalty against the man accused in last year's movie-theatre attack that killed 12, injured 70 and spurred new gun-control laws in Colorado.

The much-anticipated disclosure came in a court hearing held four days after prosecutors publicly rejected an offer by James Holmes' attorneys that the former neuroscience graduate student would plead guilty to avoid execution. Prosecutors had said the proposal wasn't a valid plea-bargain offer.

The decision to seek execution will delay the start of the trial until at least February, and the judge acknowledged even that might not be enough time for all sides to prepare. The trial had been planned to begin in August.

"It's my determination and my intention that in this case for James Eagan Holmes justice is death," Arapahoe County District Attorney George Brauchler said at the Monday hearing. He spoke quietly and deliberately without any hesitation.

There was no audible reaction from Holmes, whose parents sat side by side, clutching hands with fingers intertwined.

They were quiet, as were the victims in the courtroom when Brauchler disclosed his decision.

Bryan Beard, whose best friend was killed in the attack, sat in an overflow courtroom. "I had a huge adrenaline rush," he said. "I love the choice, I love it, I love it... I hope I'm in the room when he dies."

The rape and murder of a woman in New Delhi in December followed by two attacks on foreign female travellers has altered how tourists view India and led to a sharp fall in the number of foreign tourists, a new study says.

In the three months since that attack, the number of foreign tourists has dropped by 25 per cent, according to the Associated Chambers of Commerce and Industry in New Delhi. The number of female tourists has dropped by 35 per cent.

French President Francois Hollande wants a new law that could extend restrictions on the wearing of prominent religious symbols in state jobs into the private sector. His new tack comes after a top French court ruled in March that a day-care operator that gets some state funding unfairly fired a woman in a headscarf, sparking a political backlash.

Many Muslims and even some Roman Catholics and Jews fear France's insistence on secular values — first enshrined in the French Revolution more than two centuries ago — is unfairly crimping their ability to express their beliefs. They also worry that Hollande's government wants to score political points.

"Islam has become a political instrument," said Samia Kaddour, 26, a community activist. She has all but given up hope for a state job but is not yet discouraged enough to leave.

"I'm not a foreigner. I'm French," she said. "I love this country ... even if it has trouble liking us." THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Tourists beaten, one sexually assaulted aboard van in Rio

Rio de Janeiro, Brazil.

Two arrests made after foreigners were held in public van for six hours

Two foreign tourists were held for hours, brutalized and one of them sexually assaulted aboard a public transport van in Rio de Janeiro's Copacabana beach neighbourhood, police said in a statement.

Two men aged 20 and 22 have been taken into custody and a third is being sought in connection with the incident, which saw the tourists held for around six hours starting shortly after midnight on Saturday.

According to the statement, the suspects forced other passengers to get out of the van and then sexually assaulted the female. During the alleged assault, the tourists were driven to the poor suburban neighbourhood of Sao Goncalo, where the two suspects were apprehended.

The victims' nationalities have not been released, but local media reports have said the woman is American. Reports said the two had been studying Portuguese in Rio for about a month and that both left the country following the incident.

The statement said one of the victims' cellphones was found in the suspects' possession. The suspects had

American deaths spike dramatically following five-year low

An Afghan teenager fatally stabbed an American soldier in the neck as he played with children in eastern Afghanistan, officials said Monday, as the U.S. death toll rose sharply last month with an uptick in fighting due to warmer weather.

Last week's calculated attack shows that international troops still face a myriad of dangers even though they are increasingly taking a back seat in operations with Afghan forces ahead of a full withdrawal by the end of 2014.

year monthly low — but the American death toll climbed to at least 14 last month.

Overall, the number of Americans and other foreign forces killed in Afghanistan has fallen as their role shifts more toward training and advising government troops instead of fighting.

But a series of so-called insider attacks on foreign troops has threatened to undermine the trust needed to help President Hamid Karzai's government take the lead in securing the country after more than 11 years at war.

The attack that killed Sgt. Michael Cable, 26, of Philpot, Ky., last Wednesday occurred after the soldiers had secured an area for a meeting of U.S. and Afghan officials in a province near the volatile border with Pakistan.

But one of two senior U.S. officials who confirmed that Cable had been stabbed by a young man said the assailant was not believed to have been in uniform so it was not being classified as an insider attack.

The Netherlands. Four arrested on suspicion of burying deadly nerve gas

Dutch police spent three days digging up a field after receiving a tip that sarin may have been buried there, but found no trace of the deadly nerve agent, a prosecutor's office spokeswoman said Monday.

Two men and two women have been arrested in the case in the southern city of Maastricht on suspicion of owning and concealing a deadly gas, spokeswoman Cindy Reijnders said in a telephone interview.

She said police started monitoring a man's movements last week after a tip and arrested him Friday as he was about to start digging in a field just outside Maastricht, a city close to the Dutch border with Belgium. She said police have no indication that sarin was about to be used in a terror attack.

"There are no legal activities you can use sarin for," she said. "But at this moment we have no information or clues that it was going to be used for terrorism."

Reijnders said police believe the four suspects may have been trying to sell the nerve

About sarin

One suspect was arrested Friday as he was about to start digging in a field near Maastricht. Police dug up 400 square metres to a depth of a metre without finding anything.

Exposure to a high dose of sarin can cause convulsions and loss of consciousness. Death can be caused by suffocation because of muscular paralysis and the effects the sarin has on the respiratory centre of the nervous system.

White slavery accuser found stoned to death

South African police say Happy Sindane has been found stoned to death. Sindane made headlines around the world when he claimed he had been kidnapped and enslaved by blacks.

The motive for his killing was not known. Police spokesman Capt. Leonard Hlathi said Monday no arrests have been made.

A four-month inquiry in 2003 established that Sindane was the son of a black domestic worker and the white man for whom she worked for when Sindane was born.

Sindane had told reporters that he was a white slave, abused, threatened and forced to live outdoors tending animals.

His black family was insulted. They said they had taken in an unwanted child and treated him as one of their own.

Watchdog to examine 'muzzling' of scientists

Taxpayer-funded research. Better access to information needed, advocacy group says

Federal policies that restrict what government scientists can say publicly about their work are about to be put under the microscope.

Federal Information Commissioner Suzanne Legault has agreed to investigate how

Discontent

"We have indications that there is very, very broad discontent amongst scientists about being muzzled and having their research suppressed."

Calvin Sandborn, legal director of Victoria's Environmental Law Centre government communications rules on taxpayer-funded science impact public access to information.

Legault is responding to a detailed complaint lodged by the Environmental Law Centre at the University of Victoria and the ethics advocacy group Democracy Watch.

Their lengthy report — "Muzzling Civil Servants: A Threat to Democracy" — laid out repeated examples of taxpayer-funded science being suppressed or limited to pre-packaged media lines across six different government departments and agencies.

In a letter to the complainants, the commissioner's office noted she is required under the Access to Information Act to investigate any matter related to obtaining or requesting records.

The complaint alleges that by keeping government scientists from speaking out about their work, the public is denied the chance to request records — because no one is ever made aware they exist in the first place.

The complaint "alleges that the right of access to information under the act is impeded by government policies, practices or guidelines that restrict or prohibit government scientists from speaking with the media and the Canadian public," Legault's office responded, saying it "falls with the scope" of the legislative mandate.

In addition to four government departments and two agencies cited in the complaint, Legault said she will also examine the Treasury Board Secretariat "because of its role in relation to the development and implementation of government policies."

Chris Tollefson, the executive director of UVic's law centre, said their research into suppressed science revealed both the wide scope of the practice and that it "represents a significant departure" in government practice over the last five to seven years.

"It really is a core issue in terms of the health of our democracy," Tollefson said in an interview. "We need to know what the best science is as we make difficult decisions about policy."

River rescue. Edmonton man recounts pulling two girls out of water

After rescuing two young girls from the icy North Saskatchewan River on Sunday, a "starving" Adam Shaw and his dog Rocky each enjoyed a hamburger.

The meal was well deserved after a simple afternoon walk turned into a dramatic river rescue for the 27-year-old and his dog.

Shaw, his wife and two children were walking in Edmonton's Rundle Park on Sunday afternoon when the family heard screams coming from a footbridge below.

They looked down to see a girl floating in the river and another child trying to help her out.

Shaw yelled at the girls to stay put as his wife called 911 and he ran to the river.

By the time Shaw and Rocky reached the children, the second girl was also in the water and Shaw was able to pull her out.

Rocky and Shaw then set to work pursuing the girl who had "floated quite a ways down the river" and was in obvious distress.

Both dog and man fell in the water while in pursuit and eventually Rocky swam to the girl, who managed to grab hold of his leash.

He swam her back to the shoreline where Shaw pulled both the girl and his dog onto the ice.

The group was soon met by Edmonton Fire Rescue.

"I just really didn't want to fail.... I really wanted to save them," Shaw said on Monday.

A day after the dramatic river rescue, the pair were hailed as heroes and presented an honorary helmet and a big bone by Edmonton Fire Rescue. ANNALISE KLINGBEIL/METRO IN EDMONTON

Sales quadruple at hydroponics company after Washington and Colorado legalize weed

Business has been on fire at a Surrey, B.C., hydroponics shop since the decision was made by two U.S. states to legalize the possession of marijuana.

The ballot initiatives passed last November in Washington and Colorado allow adults over the age of 21 to possess up to 28 grams of marijuana.

Steven Betts, a co-owner of Green Planet Wholesale Ltd., says sales have quadrupled in the last few weeks, and their multimillion-dollar businesses now employ about 60 people.

Betts says his company has plans to open a new distribution facility in Washington in the next few months.

Prof. Stephen Easton, who teaches economics at Simon Fraser University, says the company's success could draw the attention of competitors such as big-box stores — especially if the owners are seeing large margins.

Green Planet's owners say it's not about doing anything illegally, and there's a sign near the store's checkout counter that warns customers that they'll be asked to leave if they mention any illegal substances.

"We've never been about doing things illegally," said Betts. "We're not martyrs. We don't try to be radicals or rebels. We're really about how to garden and how to garden efficiently."

Gotcha. Brands try to flex their funny bones with goofy mock ads

Canadian companies sought to generate some good-natured brand buzz Monday by releasing their 2013 April Fools' Day ads.

This year's participants included WestJet, the Toronto Transit Commission, Lululemon and Boston Pizza.

Smokers can use nicotine replacement longer: FDA

The U.S. Food and Drug Administration says smokers who are trying to quit can safely use over-the-counter nicotine gum, patches and lozenges for longer than previously recommended in a move to help millions of Americans kick the habit.

Current labels suggest consumers stop smoking or using other products containing nicotine when they begin using the products to help them quit and that they should stop using nicotine replacement products after 12 weeks at most.

TAKE CARE OF THAT SMILE FOR OVER 100 YEARS

From feeling unconfident to wanting to look our best on your wedding day, first date or class reunion, many of us have experienced those moments when we're just not pleased with our teeth. But thanks to an ever-growing choice of teeth whitening products, you can be prouder of your smile and more confident about your appearance.

Over time, our teeth can become discoloured due to the natural aging process and the things we consume, including coffee, tea, red wine, blueberries, etc. Medications can also be to blame, for example, people who took tetracycline as part of their acne treatment. Whatever the cause, it's time to banish the less-than-white smile.

Your smile is usually the first thing people notice about you. Shiny, white teeth are indicative of someone who takes pride in his or her appearance. Not surprisingly, a white smile can speak volumes at a job interview, where interviewers can be wowed by a lot more than a great resume.

Did you know that a whiter smile can make you feel and look more attractive to the opposite sex? According to a study by the American Academy of Cosmetic Dentistry, 96 per cent of respondents feel that having bright white teeth makes you more attractive to the opposite sex.

Even though you might not be destined

THE BENEFITS OF POWER VS. MANUAL BRUSHING

Although manual toothbrushes have become significantly more advanced over the years, many people have opted to trade in their classic brushes for powered ones. Why go for the power? In addition to the obvious answer that the brush does most of the work for you, here are a few other advantages:

- Gives you a better overall cleaning – The heads of electric toothbrushes are designed to rotate and whirl in ways that remove plaque from your teeth better and more quickly than manual ones. Power brushes also penetrate under the gum line which is helpful in reducing gingivitis.
- Is easier to handle and to hold – Larger, ergonomically designed handles make brushes easier to grip — a valuable feature for people who have arthritis, dexterity issues or carpal tunnel syndrome.

- Makes you brush for the right amount of time – Built-in timers let you know when you've brushed for two minutes (the time recommended by the Canadian Dental Association).
- Prevents over-brushing – Pressure sensors indicate if you're brushing too hard. Over-brushing can lead to tooth sensitivity and receding gums.
- Provides a greener alternative – With electric brushes, you only need to replace the head once every three months instead of the entire brush.

- Offers other convenient features: Some electric brushes make the tooth brushing time even easier for you by automatically dispensing toothpaste for you. The one complaint you might hear about the power toothbrush is that it's more expensive than a manual toothbrush.

True, but isn't your long term oral health and well-being worth it?

Some can be worn at night, others during the day. Trays should be worn daily for optimal results. Customized trays can cost anywhere from $100 to $800.

Over-the-counter options

If you're watching your budget or don't have the time to visit your dentist you might want to try over-the-counter products like strips for whitening. You'll find these products at pharmacies, and drug and grocery stores where they range in price from $15 to $60. Although they do not offer the same whitening power as professional at-home bleaching kits, these products do produce noticeable results.

An important thing to remember is that the level of whiteness will vary among individuals. What works for a friend might not work for you. Talk to your dental professional to see if you're a good candidate for teeth whitening.

If you are thinking about whiter shade of white, there are a few options available, ranging in price from less than $20 up to about $2,000.

Going to a professional

A dental professional cleans and removes of any plaque along your gum line. Once this is done, a peroxide-based gel is applied to your teeth followed by a special light that activates the gel. The process usually takes about an hour, and can whiten teeth several shades. The cost can range from $300 to $2,000 depending on the system, the technology, and the effort required to achieve desired results.

Tailored whitening kits

Using impressions of your teeth the dental professional creates a tailored whitening tray and provides a peroxide-based teeth whitening gel to be used with the tray.

REASONS WHY IT'S IMPORTANT TO FLOSS

Consider dental floss one half of a powerful plaque-fighting duo that also includes the trusted toothbrush. If you think flossing doesn't need to be part of your daily oral health routine, here are six reasons to help change your mind.

Thwart tooth decay: Only dental floss can remove plaque from between your teeth where cavities can easily form.

Avoid gum disease: Flossing helps to prevent periodontal disease, which is one of the main causes of tooth loss.

Prevent tartar build-up: Flossing can slow down the accumulation of tartar.

Defend against bad breath: If plaque is left between your teeth, it will produce a bad smell in your mouth.

Reduce heart attack risk: Dangerous bacteria contained in plaque can enter the blood stream and cause heart disease.

Ready to get flossing? Talk to your dentist about what types of products will be most effective for you.

IT'S OK TO LOSE THE BOOZE

"Whyyyy aren't you drinking?" the birthday girl slurred as she glared at me from behind her heavy mascara-coated lashes. "I'm on antibiotics," I lied, because simply not being in the mood wasn't going to cut it as an excuse. For this birthday-girl booze-hound, it wasn't enough to show up to the party; I was expected to toast the occasion with a second, third and fourth drink to show my solidarity.

While peer-pressure-related alcohol consumption might seem like an issue relegated to the teenage house party and university campus, the social expectations surrounding drinking are still very much present in our post-collegiate years and beyond. There seems to be a slew of social events that require us to indulge in a few drinks in the name of friendship. From weddings and birthday parties to bachelorette weekends, it's difficult to avoid the social lubricant of choice without drawing attention to yourself.

But if you keep track of those casual drinks throughout

The recommendation for women is no more than seven alcoholic beverages a week — for guys it's double that — but how many of us are going over that, more often than not?

Any time I've tried to commit to a defined period of sobriety, I've failed. Not because I have a "problem," but because I tend to give in to friends who insist I join them in a glass of something or other to celebrate, commiserate or simply unwind after a long week. It's not that it's so hard to say no. It's just a lot easier to say yes. Drinking is such a ritualized part of social behaviour that abstaining usually results in being subjected to an inquisition.

But it's not just friends who lay on the pressure when it comes to alcohol. Joining your colleagues in knocking back a few drinks is a common expectation in many professional settings. In some instances, the choice to remain sober can leave you at a professional disadvantage. Mention that you'd

Motown piano signed, sealed, delivered

MAX ORTIZ/THE DETROIT NEWS/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Welcome back to 'Hitsville, U.S.A.'

Piano technician Billy Brasile installs a keyboard cover on an 1877 Steinway grand piano used by Motown greats during the label's 1960s heyday. The prized Steinway, restored thanks to Paul McCartney, was moved back into Studio A on Monday at what is now the

Motown Historical Museum in Detroit, or "Hitsville, U.S.A."

McCartney, a longtime fan of the Motown sound who recorded several of the label's songs with the Beatles, told museum officials in 2011 that he wanted to help with the piano's refurbishment after learning the historic instrument — used by Stevie Wonder, Marvin Gaye and others

Motown legends — no longer could be played.

The piano was moved to New York for repairs, and the work was completed last August. In September, McCartney and Motown founder Berry Gordy, pictured right, played it together at a charitable event at Steinway Hall in New York City.

Does it really matter what time it is? The End of Time artfully explores the human construct of hours, minutes and days, arguing that nature doesn't need watches, clocks and calendars. The poetic lens of Toronto cinematographer/director Peter Mettler has previously inquired into such elusive subjects as personal fulfillment (Gambling, Gods and LSD) and the Northern Lights (Picture of Light). Now Mettler is after his most elusive prey yet: the very human concept of how we track our very existence. Following a global path that leads him from proto-astronaut Joseph Kittinger to proton-smashing physicists at CERN's Large Hadron Collider in Geneva, Switzerland, and from a Hawaiian lava watcher to Henry Ford's defunct Detroit assembly line, Mettler makes a profound statement on what makes all of us tick.

The drained gangsters of Andrew Dominik's Killing Them Softly drink to excess and whore around, but achieve little satisfaction. Business has been bad lately. It's the fall of 2008 in post-Katrina New Orleans, and despite constant chatter about "the American promise" from presidential candidate Barack Obama, few people dream big. Mob hit man Jackie Cogan (Brad Pitt) is disgusted by what he sees. There are elements of Scorsese's grime and Tarantino's wit in Killing Them Softly, but writer/director Dominik has his own methods. He's brilliant at using atmosphere and attitude. PETER HOWELL

Dwayne Johnson, at your franchise service

Role play. The man formerly known as The Rock talks about being Franchise Viagra and where he'd fit in some of Hollywood's most epic series

NED EHRBAR

Metro World News in Hollywood

The last time we spoke to Dwayne Johnson, he said he'd earned the nickname "Franchise Viagra" because of his knack for injecting energy into lagging movie properties like the Fast and Furious and Journey to the Center of the Earth series.

He's at it again with G.I. Joe: Retaliation, grabbing the alpha position from Channing Tatum to lead America's coolest covert military force. So we thought we'd see how Johnson could be deployed for other famous franchises — some struggling, some not. To our delight, he gave the assignment a lot of thought.

"You've got to give it thought because all these franchises are so beloved, and all of them have their own built-in mythology and affinity that's global, which makes it very special," Johnson says.

"And it reminds me of when we were kids, how cool and fun big Hollywood movies can be."

With that in mind, here are his ideas:

Star Wars

"What is the cross between a Sith and a Jedi? I don't know. Is there something in between that has a bit more neutrality, who vacillates between both sides? Kind of like a grey area, possibly. Being such a big fan of Star Wars and the mythology of Star Wars, my inner boy, my inner geek — which is a big geek, by the way — embodies both sides. So back when I was eight years old I was both. And I don't know what that's called. What would that be?"

Star Trek

"My gut tells me we would

Indiana Jones

"That's tough. I love George Lucas, obviously. I love Harrison (Ford). OK, I hunt him down. I hunt Indiana Jones down. When I hunt him down, there's a plot twist in there somehow where I then become the hero (laughs). And I share the hero mantle of Indiana Jones with Harrison Ford. Yes. Because of my eight-year-old inner-geek."

Twilight

"All hypothetical, right? All hypothetical. Because this is not now saying that The Rock wants to be in Twilight (laughs). Mary Roach built her career on exploring aspects of the human body that go overlooked by most writers.

In most cases, an interview subject suffering from a bad cough wouldn't be an ideal situation.

But it's oddly appropriate when the subject is Mary Roach, who can excuse herself with, "Speaking of mucoid substances, I'm launching some of them into your ear right now."

Roach has built her career on her delight in probing aspects of the science of the human body that most people would rather just ignore. In Stiff: The Curious Lives of Human Cadavers, she followed the body through its many strange post-mortem pathways; in Packing For Mars, she uncovered the less glorified side of the space program through zero-gravity toilets and long-term bed rest.

In her latest, Gulp: Adventures on the Alimentary Canal, Roach trains her sardonic, steel-stomached curiosity on the science of eating and digestion, finding laboratories where pet food is taste-tested, windows are opened onto a

The pressure is on to make tasty spring-friendly risotto

Pressure cookers can be intimidating. They seem fussy — and scary! But you may be sold after you make risotto, a dish that by definition is tedious to make.

It simplifies the process and — most impressively — speeds it up. What normally takes 45 minutes in a traditional sauté pan is done and ready to serve in about 20.

Ingredients

- 2 tbsp extra-virgin olive oil
- 1 large shallot, chopped
- 1 cup Arborio rice
- 1/2 cup white wine
- 2 cups no-salt chicken broth
- Pinch of salt, plus more to taste
- Pinch of red pepper flakes
- 1 tbsp butter
- 1 cup small asparagus tips and tops, cut into 1-inch pieces
- 1 cup shredded Parmesan cheese
- 1/8 cup chopped fresh chives

This recipe serves four. MATTHEW MEAD / THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

1. In pressure cooker over medium, heat oil until shimmering. Add shallot and sauté for 3 minutes, or until translucent. Increase heat to high and add rice, stirring to coat. Toast the rice, stirring constantly, for 2 minutes. Add wine and cook until evaporated.

2. Add broth and pinch each of salt and red pepper flakes. Stir until mix comes to a simmer, then lock on pressure cooker's lid. Set timer, 9 minutes. Bring cooker up to full pressure, then reduce heat to maintain that level. Cook until timer goes off.

3. Take cooker off heat and wait 3 minutes, then put pot in sink and run cold water over it to release pressure. Open cooker; the rice should be creamy. Return pot to stovetop over medium heat. Add butter, asparagus, cheese and chives. Stir until heated through and butter and cheese have melted. Season with salt and pepper.

Easter is over and you are left with a few scraps of ham and a ham bone. Well, now, that sounds like pea soup.

Dried peas or legumes are delicious, nutritional powerhouses containing high amounts of fibre, protein and minerals including the liver cleansing one, molybdenum.

Given that you probably cleaned your house with (liver damaging) smelly chemicals for the holidays and then indulged in a whack of sugar (also liver damaging), a little molybdenum can go a long way. #StuffNutri-tionistsSay.

Dried split yellow peas have been consumed for millennia and they are the traditional variety chosen for French Canadian Pea Soup.

The process couldn't be simpler. Place ham bone and scraps into a slow cooker with 2 cups of dried yellow split peas and 10 cups of water or broth. Add one chopped onion, one chopped carrot, 2 bay leaves and a teaspoon of thyme. Go to work. In 8 hours or so you will have a thick, healthy, delicious soup. Freeze leftovers in single serving sizes and enjoy on each and every rainy day yet to come.

Ingredients

- Kosher Salt and ground black pepper
- 1 tbsp lemon juice
- 1 1/2 tsp extra-virgin olive oil

2. In a very large bowl, whisk the egg whites until frothy. Set aside. In a medium bowl, mix together the almond flour, garlic powder, paprika, cumin, salt and pepper.

3. Place asparagus in the egg whites and gently roll or toss until all of the spears are coated and moistened. A few spears at a time, transfer the asparagus to the almond flour mixture. Roll the spears in the mixture until evenly and well coated. If needed, pat the coating on with your hands. Arrange the

You'll also toss in fresh flat-leaf parsley, and not merely as a garnish, but as a full partner to the other ingredients.

Lastly, we have pistachio nuts. They're great for their flavour, but — at only four calories per nut — they're also a boon to the diet-conscious.

Of course, you could swap in walnuts, almonds, cashews or pecans if you wanted. They're all sources of healthy fat.

1. In a large bowl, combine a hefty pinch of salt, some black pepper and the lemon juice. Whisk until the salt is dissolved, then add the oil in a stream, whisking. Set aside.

2. Lay asparagus flat on cutting board and slice few stalks at a time very thin on a diag-

Real housewife of New Jersey tells it like it is in new book

Straight shooter.

Caroline Manzo talks about her book, family life and reality TV

For all the table-flipping, name-calling and screaming on Bravo's The Real Housewives of New Jersey, there is a voice of reason among the cast. That belongs to Caroline Manzo, a straight shooter, happily married mother of three grown children.

Manzo can get worked up on the show, and she certainly holds her own in a battle, but for the most part, she seems irritated, if not bored, by the drama among her cast mates. One thing is evident — when Manzo speaks, everyone listens.

The 51-year-old reality star has expanded on her no-nonsense approach to life with a new book, Let Me Tell You Something: Life as a Real Housewife, Tough-Love Mother, er, and Street-Smart Businesswoman written with Kevin

Dickson and published by It

Books.

Why did you decide to write a book?

I got the idea from the viewers. They ask me the same questions over and over again, and it's, "How do you manage to have three great children? How do you manage to have a close family, long marriage, happy marriage, backbone? How is it being in the public eye?" ... All I can say is what I've done in my life and that for me was the best way to answer the questions, through little anecdotes about my life.

You can tell on the show that you're very close with your family. Did you notice right away that people were very interested in knowing how you achieved that?

To this very moment I'm puzzled by the reaction to me and my family because I'm finding more and more that people find it unusual and it should be normal and that's what puzzles me. Why am I unusual? Why is my bond with my children abnormal? And that's what I find interesting.

This book isn't a tell-all. Did some people think you should make it one?

There are some people along the way that said, "It would sell more copies." Well, that to me is not success. I want the book to sell because people want to hear what I had to say about things and are truly interested in learning about me and my family and the process of being on Housewives, which I talk about. I don't bash anyone. I tell little behind-the-scenes anecdotes about Housewives. To say that something is a success because you were negative about somebody is not the way I operate.

Do you feel you've learned anything about yourself watching yourself on TV?

The greatest gift in the world is to see yourself on reality TV. Everybody says, "Oh, gee, I hate my voice! Oh my God, I'm so fat!" You know, beyond that, you learn tolerance and acceptance and things like that and you learn to look at yourself and say, "Gee, I could fix that about myself because it's just not cool." So sure, I've had a lot of lessons throughout the five years of being on television and in the public eye. And I'm grateful for it. You know, there were moments that I wanted to crawl under the covers and just die, but you know, so what? OK, I'm still here, it's OK.

Viewers who watch The Real Housewives think they know you because it's a reality show. Do they really?

I would say the viewers have a pretty good handle of who we are as people. However, you don't know all sides of us. We are each multifaceted individuals, so you see one angle of us, you don't see everything.

Dead or alive, for some celebrities fame just sticks

Reality TV stars may come and go, but a new study suggests true fame is enduring.

The research finds that people who achieve real celebrity remain famous for years, making frequent appearances in newspapers over periods of decades. The work bucks the widely held notion that fame is ephemeral, a belief held both by average individuals and by those who study the sociology of fame.

Eran Shor is an assistant professor of sociology at McGill University and is one of the authors of the study, which is published in the American Sociological Review.

He and his co-authors used large collections of newspaper archives that spanned decades to study the issue, looking at people in sports and politics and the field where fame is thought to be most fleeting — entertainment.

They found that even a dead celebrity like the eccentric billionaire Howard Hughes continues to feature in news articles long after his death.

"The large, large, large majority of people who get famous stay famous. For a long time. How long, it depends on how famous they got," Shor says.

Shor undertook the work with two colleagues from Stony Brook University, along with a software engineer from Google.

This portion of their ongoing work looks at figures in entertainment.

From a list of tens of millions of names that appeared in the entertainment sections of more than 2,000 newspapers between 2004 and 2009, a random sample of 100,000 names was drawn.

The names were then analyzed to see which appeared most often, with the top 10 from the sample selected for study. And then those names were tracked to see if people who were frequently written about for one year had sustained fame.

The top 10 were actors Jamie

Fox, Bill Murray, Natalie Portman, Tommy Lee Jones, Naomi Watts, John Malkovich, Adrien Brody and Steve Buscemi. Rounding out the group were music producer (and convicted murderer) Phil Spector and the late inventor and billionaire Howard Hughes.

"Here's a group of people that are fairly famous, but perhaps not the most famous of them all — and all of them stick. All of them stay around from year to year. We know who they are, the papers keep writing about them, they stay in some kind of a celebrity (mode). They didn't go away."

One small business, and one giant step for youth employment

YOUR MONEY
Alison Griffiths
money@metronews.ca

Take an innovative restaurant in Toronto called The Depanneur, add in a guest program for young chefs-in-the-making, stir, season and serve up a dish that helps solve youth unemployment.

OK, maybe I'm stretching it a bit, but owner Len Senater is using his business to help young chefs, such as my daughter and recent graduate, Quinn Cruise, get started.

Recently, she created Japanese Hambaagu, a sushirice bowl topped with slider-like Asian meatballs, creamy mushrooms, a fried egg, edamame and a side of Japanese pickle. Drooling yet?

The guest chef develops a dish, pays for the ingredients and keeps a portion of the take.

Supported by a volunteer sous-chef, well-known vegan and raw chef, Mary Hulbert, Quinn cooked up a storm and pocketed $175 before expenses.

This isn't just a make-work program. If every business were as creative as Senater's, unemployed or underemployed youth would have the opportunity to demonstrate their skills in the marketplace.

This very small business (affectionately called The Dep) offers up to 150 young chefs a shot annually. Multiply this by giant, mid-size and small enterprises across the country and Canada could develop a concerted effort to provide work experience for the young.

And benefits accrue to the host. "It's also inherently viral," Senater points out. "Each new chef brings friends and family to their events, introducing the Dep to way more people than I could on my own."

Many businesses have internships, but it's so random that finding them can be difficult. In contrast, a nation-wide program, including a central database, to help youth find job experience would not only be a productivity boost, but would pay forward into the impending employee shortage when the baby boomers finally retire.

Even better, a percentage of these positions should be earmarked for those with disabilities. Among this group the unemployment rate hovers in the 60 per cent or greater range. My job-seeking daughter is deaf and part of that statistic.

"This experience really showed that I don't need hearing to be a good chef," Quinn says. "It also gave me a good idea about what to expect when I might head a restaurant one day."

It all adds up to a win-win in my books.

You must use major credit cards to build a good score.

Truth

If you're unable to obtain a major credit card, there are other ways to build your credit history. Making regular payments on instalment loans such as a car lease can positively affect your score, as do department-store cards and secure credit cards, which require a cash deposit in the amount of the credit limit.

Myth 2

You can't make up for mistakes such as late payments.

Truth

It takes time, but your credit will become positive as you build consistency with timely payments, Ross says. How much time it will take depends on a number of factors, including how long the late payment has been on your record and how long you've had the debt.

Myth 3

Paying cash boosts your score.

Truth

You need to use credit in order to demonstrate your ability to make payments. Using credit at least once every 30 days and making payments on time will keep you in good standing, says Ross.

Myth 4

I will not qualify for a mortgage if I've had a poor credit score.

Truth

Lenders look at your entire financial picture, including your assets, available cash flow and debt-to-income ratio. They'll also review your housing expense-to-income ratio, which is a comparison of your expected monthly mortgage payment with your gross monthly income. ## Red Sox rout Jeter-less Yankees 8-2

Pitcher Jon Lester and the Boston Red Sox got off to a quick start after a dreadful 2012 season, giving new manager John Farrell an 8-2 win over the barely recognizable New York Yankees, whose star Derek Jeter is out with a sore ankle, on opening day Monday.

Newcomer Shane Victorino led a revamped Red Sox lineup with three RBIs and rookie Jackie Bradley Jr. walked three times and scored twice in his big-league debut. Boston's big day against CC Sabathia (0-1) came a year after it lost its first three games under Bobby Valentine and went on to a 69-93 finish.

Crosby, Subban, Bobrovsky earn March stars

Sidney Crosby's broken jaw was the unfortunate end of a spectacular month.

The NHL named Crosby the first star for the month after the Penguins captain's 25 points in 15 games helped Pittsburgh go undefeated in March.

Montreal defenceman P.K. Subban was named second star, while Columbus goaltender Sergei Bobrovsky took third star.

In weekly award winners, Toronto forward Joffrey Lupul was named first star, followed by San Jose goaltender Antti Niemi and Edmonton forward Taylor Hall.

Canadians will wear Livestrong jerseys

Women's worlds.

Damaged brand about a cause, not one individual, Nike says

The Canadian women's hockey team will proudly wear black and yellow Livestrong jerseys in its first game of the world championships.

Still, players and coaches harboured conflicting emotions about the cancer charity's connection to Lance Armstrong after the cyclist admitted to doping.

"There are going to be comments and people who are going to associate it with Lance Armstrong," coach Dan Church said. "I asked those same questions. I wanted to know about where the money was going. I wanted to know about that relationship.

"My perspective personally is Livestrong may be the greatest achievement Lance Armstrong had as an athlete. Beyond what he did on the bike and winning and beyond his cheating and what's happened to his reputation lately, this is a really positive thing. It's important for us to look at what it does for the millions of people as opposed to what one person did."

Nike's line of Livestrong apparel raises money for the organization established 16 years ago by Armstrong, a cancer survivor. The cycling star's relationship with the charity ended last year after revelations that he took performance-enhancing drugs and lied about it for years.

The foundation continues to raise money to help people with cancer through its programs and services.

And that cause is why Canada's Olympic champions will be wearing the gear Tuesday night against the U.S. in Ottawa. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Personal connection

- Coach Dan Church's father died of cancer in January at age 70.
- Forward Jayna Hefford's father died in 2007 of the disease.
- Captain Hayley Wickenheiser's sister is a cancer survivor.
- Defenceman Tessa Bonhomme's grandmother is a breast cancer survivor.

Dickey ready to deliver under the dome

Blue Jays catcher J.P. Arencibia talks with R.A. Dickey after playing catch at a team workout on Monday at Rogers Centre. DAVID COOPER/TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

While some baseball traditionalists decry the roof and artificial turf at Rogers Centre, R.A. Dickey sees a controlled environment and smiles.

Life under the dome has been good for the knuckleballer.

"The climate's not an issue. You don't have to worry about wind gusts. You don't have to worry about rain and moisture," said the 38-year-old right-hander, who opens for the Toronto Blue Jays against Justin Masterson

Knuckleballer

"I usually have fairly good numbers inside domes — traditionally."

Blue Jays pitcher R.A. Dickey and the Cleveland Indians on Tuesday.

"It's usually a constant temperature. The grass usually is the same — especially here," he added with a grin.

That's the simple answer.

Like most things, Dickey has thought through the issue.

"In domes, a lot of times it depends on how much humidity gets inside," he adds, getting into the topic.

If the roof is left open on a hot day and then closed just before game time, the humidity is trapped inside without much circulation, he explained.

"It's hard to throw a knuckleball in that environment," he said.

Roberto Luongo

It's a surprise to many that Luongo is still with the Canucks as a well-paid backup goaltender.

While the rumours continue to swirl, the asking price just seems too high. Few teams are in need of a veteran with $47 million left on a contract which doesn't end until 2022.

Jaromir Jagr

The Stars picked up the 41-year-old forward in the off-season and signed him to a one-year deal worth $4.55 million.

He has been a top scorer on the team but it seems unlikely he'll stick around too long no matter what Dallas does this season.

Mike Ribeiro

Ribeiro, who will be an unrestricted free agent this summer, was picked up by the Capitals to add punch to their second line and he has delivered by becoming one of the team's top scorers.

The two sides are reportedly trying to hammer out an agreement in advance of the deadline.

Done deal. Flames send Bouwmeester to Blues ahead of trade deadline

The Calgary Flames dealt defenceman Jay Bouwmeester to the St. Louis Blues on Monday night ahead of the upcoming trade deadline.

In return, the Flames acquired a first-round pick and two prospects - defenceman Mark Cundari and goaltender Reto Berra.

In the event St. Louis does not qualify for this year's playoffs, the Flames will receive St. Louis' fourth-round selection in this summer's draft, with the first-round pick being deferred to 2014.

The move comes after Calgary started a rebuild by trading captain Jarome Iginla to Pittsburgh last week. The NHL trade deadline is 3 p.m. (Eastern) on Wednesday.

Bouwmeester, who has an annual cap hit of US$6.68 million through to the end of next season, has six goals and nine assists in 33 games in 2013.

Pro hockey player dies after taking head shot in game

A player in the Kazakhstan ice hockey league has died, several days after receiving a violent hit to the head during a playoff game.

Dmitri Uchaykin, a Russian forward for the Ertis Pavlodar club, was 32. His club announced the death on its website, but did not give further details.

Uchaykin took a hard hit from Arystan forward Donatas Kumeliuskas during their game, but Russia's Sovetsky Sport said the player left the ice on his own and drove back home after the game.

He then lost consciousness the next day and was rushed to a local hospital, where he died of a stroke early Sunday.

Uchaykin has spent most of his career with Russian club Amur.

Horoscopes

 Aries

March 21 - April 20

What would you do if you knew all things were possible? So do it. Cosmic activity is so much in your favour at the moment that anything you try this week will work out well, maybe even spectacularly.

 Taurus

April 21 - May 21

The more you push, the more others will resist you and the more frustrated you will get. Maybe you should take the hint and stop trying so hard. Everything will work out for the best.

 Gemini

May 22 - June 21

The thing you most need to remember today is that other people need you more than you need them. Maybe you should find a way to remind them how much they struggle when you're not around.

 Cancer

June 22 - July 23

So you crave fame and fortune? There's a downside: loss of privacy and everything that goes with it. You don't care and you still want it? OK, now's the time to make your move.

 Leo

July 24 - Aug. 23

Is there a belief or code of conduct that guides your actions? Is it living up to what you expected of it? If not, now is a good time to think in different directions. There are many paths to the ultimate goal.

 Virgo

Aug. 24 - Sept. 23

This may be a serious time for you but it's by no means unfavourable. In fact, you will find over the next 24 hours that business and financial matters go exceedingly well. No, really, there's no catch.

 Libra

Sept. 24 - Oct. 23

Go your own way, do your own thing today and don't worry what others think of it. Every now and again you need to get away from the crowd, and this is one of those times.

 Scorpio

Oct. 24 - Nov. 22

You may not be looking forward to a new responsibility but neither should you be facing it with so much anxiety. The worst rarely happens and once you get in the swing of things, you'll sail through.

 Sagittarius

Nov. 23 - Dec. 21

Aim to be the best at what you do, today and every day. You've had your five per cent inspiration, now you need to start building up perspiration — that's the other 95 per cent.

 Capricorn

Dec. 22 - Jan. 20

This may be one of those days when everything you say is taken the wrong way. Be that as it may, you must not stop talking. You have a message to get across and the world needs to hear it.

 Aquarius

Jan. 21 - Feb. 19

You may be dealing with a number of serious things but you are still allowed to have fun. Make time in your busy schedule to visit a friend who needs cheering up. It will cheer you up too.

 Pisces

Feb. 20 - March 20

You may not be the most practical member of the zodiac but you know what you like and you know how to get it. You also know that you should never let a good opportunity slip away, so get busy. SALLY BROMPTON

SELL YOUR GOLD WITH PEACE OF MIND

LEARN THE FACTS AND PROTECT YOURSELF

When it comes to buying, selling, refining and recycling precious metals, OttawaGold is the leading, trusted authority in the industry. We are leading the way by providing a trusted tradition of ethical practices, information and education as well as unparalleled service to each and every customer. We have made major investments to acquire state-of-the-art gold testing equipment to assure exact details of the items being tested. You will be involved in each step along the way.

HERE ARE A FEW WAYS WE TEST YOUR GOLD:

ACID SCRATCH TEST

The first step we use is an acid scratch test. This may be the only test that is used if the test goes well. We scratch the item on a smooth touch stone (similar to slate). This does not damage the piece in any way, but makes a fine mark on the stone.

SPECIFIC GRAVITY MACHINE

The second step that may be conducted is a measurement of your item's density. By weighing the item first on a normal scale, and then underwater, the density is calculated. Since gold is a very heavy metal, the density allows us to calculate the purity of your gold.
